

BRENNAN & CO CELEBRATES 40 YEARS IN BUSINESS

Brennan & Co are delighted to celebrate 40 years in business this year. Over the last four decades, Brennan & Co have developed a reputation for providing the highest possible level of customer service - a reputation that sets us apart from the rest of the market. We have gained significant experience and expertise in laboratory processes - experience that is passed on to customers and suppliers alike.

The relationship Brennan & Co have enjoyed with Beckman Coulter has also been growing stronger and stronger over the last 25 years - a relationship that encourages two-way communication and feedback ensuring that the end customer benefits from world wide technological advancements in the laboratory arena. Beckman Coulter and Brennan & Co recognise that constant innovation is required to compete in this fast paced industry and are constantly working together to develop and launch new concepts to further automate today's laboratory systems.

Our Clinical team continues to grow with additional dedicated clinical customer support staff as well as an increasing number of clinical field service engineers ensuring that our staff are always on hand to assist our customers in any way they can. The clinical team looks set to expand even further as we enter our next 40 years in business.

Our policy of Total Customer Support, developed over the last 40 years in the Irish marketplace will continue to be the basis for all our business decisions for the next 40 years. Our experienced Salespeople, dedicated Field Engineers and friendly Administrators will continue to deliver the quality, customer-focused responses our ACBI customers have come to expect and rely on.
